RED SOX-PHILLIES IN SECOND GAME

Ideal Weather Conditions and With Fast Grounds--Red Sox Confident of a Win

(Special to The Herald)
Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The weather was clear but cold for the second world's series battle this afternoon. The sun was out but the temperature had dropped to around 45. The field was dried out nicely making playing conditions excellent. The victory of the Moran gladiators shifted the betting from even money to 7 to 5 that the Phillies will win the series. The wagering on the outcome of today's game was even money.

President Wilson and about 20,500 other fans greeted the rival baseball warriors when they met here this afternoon in the second clash. The sun shone brightly and a strong wind blew across the field and made overcoats and furs a necessity. The players went through a fielding and batting practice. The field was dry and the players took chances with the difficult drives. The crowd came very early today. The bleachers began filling into their seats immediately after the gates opened, while the reserved seat holders started to filter in shortly after noon. The band kept them entertained until the players took the field. Their appearance was greeted with the usual applause. At 1:30 every seat was filled in the bleachers with a great crowd still pouring in. Pat Moran watched the work of Rixey and Burns closely.

The crowd rose to its feet and cheered at the entrance of President Wilson and party at 2:04. He was escorted to his seat by a captain of the Philadelphia police. Mrs. Galt walked a few steps ahead of the President. After he had exchanged greetings with President Baker he was handed a ball which he threw on the field and the game was called at 2:08 o'clock. The box reserved for the President was gaily decorated with flags. It was just to the left of the home plate and next to that occupied by President William Haker of the Philadelphia club. First inning—Boston 1, Philadelphia 0.

STILL ROBBING TELEPHONE BOOTHS

The gang who has been making a practice of robbing the telephone pay stations, paid a visit to York Beach the first of the week and robbed several stations.

At the railroad station the telephone was tipped from the wall and the money box forced open. They made no attempt to rob the ticket office. They then robbed the Spa booth and here helped themselves to cigarettes, candy and took a cheap watch. The cash drawer only yielded 43 cents.

BOXING NOTES

GILBERT GALLANT AND FRANKIE CALLAHAN MEET IN BOSTON TUESDAY EVENING

Alex MacLennan the manager of Gilbert Gallant, promises the fans a surprise next Tuesday night when his protegee tackles Frankie Callahan for the second time. The manager of the Chelsea boxer looks for Gallant to march off with a victory just as he did in the second bout with Sam Roubideau of Philadelphia. That was a surprise to the fans just as the result of their prior battle at Bridgeport was to many.

Gallant profited by his mistake of the first meeting and displayed a style of boxing that perplexed Roubideau. Under the tutelage of Mike Glover he rounded into fine form for the bout and he presented a defence and furnished a style of attack that plainly upset all of Roubideau's plans.

The Chelsea boxer is now training diligently for the bout and he expects to be in perfect trim for the bout by Monday.

Today is "Fire Prevention Day" and many cities are planning a big celebration.

The Weather Prophet.

To predict hard winters has usually been considered the province of the New England Yankee, but it seems that the practice is not confined to this country, nor do the home prophets have a monopoly of the methods they employ.

In the Alps lives a weather prophet who has just warned the government of France that the coming winter will be one of unusual severity. This prophet claims to be a naturalist and meteorologist, and the observations on which he bases his prediction very closely resemble those advanced by the Yankee weather prophet when he proceeds to inform an always interested public with reference to the character of the winter ahead.

This foreign observer points to the fact that snow has fallen in the Alps earlier than usual and that the fall extended further down the mountains than the first snows usually do. He further notes that foliage and wild flowers are fading earlier than they commonly do, and that wild animals have begun unusually early to prepare for the winter. Field mice are burrowing exceptionally deep, the birds are migrating considerably in advance of the ordinary time for migration, and for these and other reasons he is confident that next winter will be exceptionally long and rigorous.

This sounds like home. As a rule, the Yankee prophets have not yet begun their season's work in the line of forecasting the character of the winter, though they have called our attention to the ominous fact that the wind was in the northwest on the day that the sun "crossed the line." In the estimation of many this alone is sufficient warning, but we have yet to hear of the thickness of corn husks and the fur on animals. All of these things are taken into account by the weather prophets, who, it must be admitted, make good in a majority of cases. They generally predict a hard winter, and whoever does that in this part of the country is apt to win.

After all is said and done, there is a good deal of amusement and no harm in predicting the weather. It is an innocent pastime open to all, and those who do not engage in it always like to hear from men who keep their eye on the elements and find one of the keenest enjoyments of life in laying before their fellows the conclusions based on observations "which have never been known to fail."

Good luck to the weather prophets! We do not want a hard winter, but if it is to come we want to know it in order that we may adopt a policy of "preparedness."

A company for the manufacture of dyestuffs and chemicals has been incorporated in Delaware with a capital of $15,000,000. It is the purpose of the company to manufacture articles which for the most part have been "made in Germany." The company will ask the government for suitable protection against ruinous foreign competition after the war, and this it should have, though it should not be placed in a position to build up a grinding monopoly.

Heavy frosts have held off well, but they are making their appearance in the West and will doubtless reach this section at an early date. The fact is we are nearer winter than is commonly realized, owing to the late hot weather and the rains that have kept the country exceptionally fresh and green for the time of year.

Speaker Champ Clark stands before the public in a new light. He was a member of a posse that dispersed a mob of lynchers in Missouri the other day and saved the life of a negro. Incidentally it is to be noted that not all of the lynchings and attempts at lynching are south of Mason and Dixon's line.

Perhaps both sides will be able to extract satisfaction from President Wilson's attitude on woman suffrage. He says that in voting for it he shall do so "not as the leader of his party, but as a private citizen."

American manufacturers of wooden legs have received contracts from foreign countries aggregating $15,000,000. Unfortunately the market for this product is very large and constantly growing.

After all the trust busting and "dissolvings" doesn't this talk about a mammoth steel combination sound like going back to old conditions?

The mayor of Chicago is going in for "dry" Sundays. Success to his efforts, but the chances are that there will be a few "leaks" here and there.

Now that the Arabic case is out of the way, it is predicted that matters of interest to Great Britain will receive attention.

CURRENT OPINION

American Farmers Need National Marketing and Rural Credit Systems.

On a superficial review of what we read in the papers it would seem that the last man who needs anything done for him is the farmer. We are told that there never was a time in the history of the country when the farmer was so prosperous.

Set against that beautiful picture the fact that, according to the census of 1910, 37 per cent of the agricultural land of the United States was in the hands of renters and that 15 per cent of those renters had sprung up in the ten years immediately preceding the census. Where does that leave the American farmer in 1920? Off the map, except so far as he is working to pay rent to some trust that has bought up his land and to furnish a handsome income to some middleman who robs him of the proceeds of his toil.

The only way you can save the American farmer and bring down the high cost of living is to organize a national marketing system and a national rural credit system.

With proper legislation and adequate safeguards the United States would be an ideal field for the adoption of such simple and effective expedients.—By David Lubin, Permanent Delegate of the United States to the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome.

OBJECT TO SELF-HUNTING DOGS

Agricultural Advisory Board Claims Dogs Have Caused Sheep Losses.

Concord, October 8.—The first meeting of the advisory board of the department of agriculture since the appointment by the governor and council, was held in the office of the department of agriculture this afternoon. The board organized with Commissioner Feltner as chairman and Wesley A. Adams as secretary.

The board took a strong stand on the matter of the self-hunting dogs, passing a resolution that steps should be taken to secure the enforcement of the law passed at the last session of the legislature. It was reported that depredations among sheep this fall have been greater than in a long time despite the drastic law passed at the last session.

The non-enforcement of the law is said to be due to the disinclination of selectmen and constables of towns to go after and prosecute owners of dogs that chase and destroy the sheep. Some effort is to be made by the advisory board to have the law enforced.

The board voted to conduct not less than two farmers institutes in each county during the year and took up amendments to the present agricultural laws, the need of which has been shown by the operation of the laws.

Commissioner Feltner was requested to get in touch with the agricultural department at Washington to see if arrangements can be made for a statewide soil survey. There has been a survey by the government in Merrimack county which has proven beneficial and it is desired to give the other counties of the state the same advantage.

Old Time Minstrel Man Well Known in This City.

Thomas F. Hughes one of the old time minstrel men is dead at his home in Salmon Falls. Deceased was a native of Dover and was 51 years of age. He was well known in this city where he has appeared as a dancer with the Nonpareil Club and other local organizations. For several years he traveled with Dupree and Headlits Minstrels. Later he formed a partnership with the late John C. McGulick and Eddie Markey, both of Dover, and Eddy Talbert of Elmira, N. Y., and toured the country in the Minstrel Four. Mr. Hughes ended his minstrel career with Melody and Hearty.

Some of his best work as a pedestal equestrian was during his association with Mr. Bassett of Nashua, when they traveled under the name of Hughes Brothers. He was a close friend of Low Dackstader and his first work before the footlights was with this famous minstrel man. He traveled one year with the John A. Murray circus.

He is survived by a wife, three sons, Edward, Walter and Frank; and three daughters, Misses Grace, Florence and Jennie Hughes; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Hughes and three sisters.

MAKE CHARGES OF TREASON

Vienna, October 9.—A Cracow Polish paper recently published an article from one of its war correspondents charging the Ruthenians in Galicia with treason. It is said that the priest of the Orthodox church at Zolozanne, near Lemberg had fled with the Russian troops after luring an Austrian regiment into a trap by giving false information to the commander. The correspondents further alleged that a teacher of the school of Zolozanne, a Ruthenian woman was hanged for treason because the Austrian troops found a telephone which was connected with the Russian headquarters, hidden in her sewing machine.

The committee started an investigation and has now published this report: "There is no Orthodox church at Zolozanne. The only Russian priest of the town, Rev. P. J. Jasenski, did not flee with the Russians but before them. He came to Vienna and lived here until August 15. Five weeks ago he went to Snylnik near Liske, in Galicia where he took charge of the parish."

"PREPAREDNESS"

This word has figured large in the news of the last year. It has frequently been linked with another vital word—"SUCCESS." It is an important word to the business man—a word that robs competition of its terrors. "Preparedness" includes a definite expenditure for advertising to trench the business or product in public good will. It means the kind of "business insurance" advertising brings. This newspaper will be very glad to discuss with any business man this phase of "business preparedness."

ONE KILLED, SEVERAL INJURED

In Head-on Collision Between Two Passenger Trains Near Lynchburg, Va.

(Special to The Herald) Lynchburg, Va., October 9.—One man was killed, another seriously injured, and eight or ten passengers slightly bruised in a head-on collision between the north bound express train No. 33, and the south bound train No. 19 on the Southern railroad, at Arrington just north of here early today. The dead was P. O. Hughes, baggage-master of Lynchburg. The seriously injured was a negro. The injured passengers were on the express train. No passengers on the local were hurt. The injured were brought to Lynchburg. It is believed that the wreck is due to a mistake in signals. The express which is a crack train between New Orleans and New York, was behind time and was making great speed in an effort to make up its schedule.

VILLA MAKES FINAL EFFORT

To Prevent Carranza From Being Recognized by the U. S. Government.

Washington, October 9.—General Villa today is going to make his final and most desperate attempt to prevent Carranza from being recognized by the United States. Through his agent here Villa is going to send word to Secretary Lansing and the Latin-American envoys as soon as possible that he and all his chiefs will step down and out of Mexican affairs if the peace conference asked by those envoys two months ago is held, and if recognition is denied Carranza. Just what effect Villa's eleventh hour stand will have is problematical.

THIEF GETS 40 LBS. LEAD

Hardware Store of G. L. Trefethen, Kittery, Broken Into.

The hardware store of George L. Trefethen, Kittery, was broken into one night recently and forty pounds of lead were stolen. The break was discovered the next day by one of the clerks. Entrance to the cellar where the lead was kept was made by taking off the hinges of a small cellar window in the rear of the building. Upon further search it was found that the thief had attempted to force the door leading from the cellarway to the store proper, but had been unsuccessful. Nothing besides the lead was taken. It is believed, Deputy Sheriff Maurice Leach is investigating the break.

OUR NEXT BIG CELEBRATION

We Should Duplicate That of a Year Ago.

It may not be too early to say something about the next big event in the way of a public celebration for this city, that of New Years. It will be remembered that the last one was nothing short of success in every way. On the eve of the last day of 1914 the city was crowded with people from the surrounding towns and a distinct feature of the occasion was the business derived from the same. The theatres up to 11 o'clock were packed to the doors. Hotels and eating houses did an immense business; electric car lines had all they could handle and the stores that remained open had a rush. This is what counts as well as the enjoyment and this year it should be better and bigger than ever. It keeps a town on the map and the initial program last year can be pointed to with pride on the part of the committee and the people in general. Let us duplicate the affair on the advent of 1916.

"THE COTTON KING"

Sensational Five-Reel Photoplay Featuring George Nash at the Portsmouth Theatre.

World Film Corporation presents the five-part photoplay, "The Cotton King," based on Sutton Vane's well-known drama of the same name.

George Nash, the well-known star of many a Broadway success, is the central figure of this powerful drama, which is the first production for World Film of Oscar Eagle, one of the most experienced film directors in the business.

John Osborne, the cotton king, refuses to go into a cotton corner, and buys a big mill in the South, which is blown up. He is in love with one girl, and is accused of ruining another. The bottom falls out of the cotton market, and he is ruined. His rival, the villain of the piece, attempts to kill Osborne's fiancée, but is defeated. The girl escapes, the villain is unmasked, and the lovers are made happy. Sensational scenes on the cotton market, and illustrative of life in the South are shown in the picture.

George Nash is supported by a capable cast, including Julia Hay, Fred Truesdale, Mario Majeroni and Julia Stuart.

This sensational and gripping melodramatic photoplay will be shown at the Portsmouth Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 11 and 12. This is one of the best pictures we have ever shown. Be sure to see it.

PRISONER MAKES VALUABLE INVENTION

Vienna, October 8.—One of the Russian prisoners in the camp at Itechenberg, Bohemia, Dr. Iven Perschikow of Odessa, has good prospect to be war ends. The prisoner is a chemist and artillery officer of the Russian reserve.

When he was brought to Reichenberg after his capture last winter, he met an Austrian physician who had been his chum during his college days at the universities of Leipzig and Viedel. The surgeon of the prison hospital, he received permission to fix up a little laboratory and to do research and experimental work. He has now made a discovery which promises to revolutionize a certain industry. The details of his invention are kept secret until he can obtain patents, but experts whom he has taken into his confidence unanimously declare that there are millions in his discovery.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Holbrook at Aurora, Illinois, Receive Remembrances From This City

Rev. Charles A. Holbrook who was rector of St. John's Episcopal church from 1877 to May 1882 and was justly popular with all classes, on Monday last celebrated his golden wedding at his home in Aurora, Illinois.

While in this city Rev. Mr. Holbrook was instrumental in connection with Mrs. Sarah Keiser, Mrs. Kate Hooper in starting the Chase Home for Children, Miss Lizzie Hannumford, now Mrs. John Day of Northwood Ridge being the first matron. He also started the cottage hospital on Court street in the Bailey house, now the Aldrich home, with the assistance of Miss F. Harriet McEl. Kimball.

The Aurora Beacon News had the following to say of the interesting event:

Had there been any doubt (which there wasn't) of the popularity in Aurora of the Rev. Charles A. Holbrook and Mrs. Holbrook, it would have been dispelled by a knowledge of the number who called yesterday and evening at the Holbrook home on the occasion of their golden wedding.

While no formal invitations had been issued, and while it had been distinctly understood that this was to be one of the "no gift" receptions, yet friends did come, hundreds of them, and did bring gifts both of exquisite flowers and those of more substantial character.

The house was attractively decorated by a little group of close friends in yellow with quantities of garden flowers, and as well with the many bouquets sent in during the day, several consisting of clusters of fifty roses.

Refreshments were served, all carried out in the sunshine color. Mrs. Edmund Hafferty, Mrs. Charles S. Kilbourne, Mrs. Alice Watts and Mrs. Robert Lake being among those who assisted while frappe was served by Mrs. Philip Frazier.

There was the greatest interest shown in the attractive picture of Mrs. Holbrook as a very young girl, as well as the likeness of the Rev. Mr. Holbrook taken years ago. There was the dainty wedding gown of soft "cres grain" white silk made with full skirt and basque not unlike the bodice today, which one saw upstairs. There was most attractive of all a little cluster of roses which Mr. Holbrook took from the hair of his wife shortly after the ceremony fifty years ago and placed in a tiny box which was opened yesterday.

Among the interesting remembrances was a bunch of flowers from the old garden of Mr. Holbrook in Portsmouth, N. H. One saw the prayer book, in brown, embossed, which was the gift of the groom to the bride years ago and which was carried during the ceremony.

The older members of Trinity parish those who worked with the Holbrooks when first they came to Aurora, made a gift of gold which was presented by Mrs. Edith Tinsworth. There were 50 roses from the parish daughters—indeed all church organizations were represented, the Daughters, the Ladies' Guild, the Ladies' Auxiliary and all.

One of the most charming features of the day was the appearance during the evening of the choir of Trinity church which sang as only the choir can sing, "The Lord Bless Thee and Keep Thee" of Lullings, as follows:

"The Lord bless thee and keep thee
The Lord be gracious unto thee,
The Lord lift up his countenance unto thee
And give thee peace
Now and evermore, Amen."

DIPLOMATIC BATTLE LOST BY THE ALLIES

Bulgaria's Entrance Into War on Side of Teutons is Considered Veritable Disaster.--Italians Gaining on Isonzo.

London, Oct. 8.—A German official report from Field Marshal von Mackensen says that the movement of the Teutonic forces across the Danube, Save and Drina Rivers is proceeding favorably. The capture of three cannon and some hundreds of prisoners in the vicinity of Rahn, about forty miles east of Belgrade, seems to indicate that this is a point along which one of the wedges into Serbian territory may be driven. Another movement seems to be well to the west of Belgrade, with a probable view to convergence of the force from the two directions to the south of Belgrade, cutting off that city and Semendria, the terminal of the railroad through the Morava Valley to Nish, Sofia, Salonica and to Constantinople.

No disaster suffered by the Allies on sea or land is comparable to their defeat in the field of Balkan diplomacy. If the despatches tell the truth none of the Balkan states, with the exception of Serbia, will be found fighting on the side of the Entente Powers. Hate, immediate self-interest or fear of Germany appear to govern the attitude of Bulgaria, Greece and Rumania. That the ultimate real interests of all of those Powers would seem to demand the defeat of Germany does not figure. With Bulgaria in active cooperation with Turks and Germans and Greece and Rumania quiescent the Allies will find it extremely difficult to transport sufficient forces to the Morava Valley to prevent the destruction of Serbia. When this has been accomplished Germany has a clear pathway by which to send aid to the Turkish defenders of the Dardanelles, the early attack on which by sea alone constituted the first great blunder in this field of operations. Only Herculean efforts, conducted with the utmost speed, can save the situation here. Any Anglo-French force at present available together with what is left of the Serbian forces, can avail little against an Austro-German army of 300,000 or 400,000 men moving from the north with a tremendous artillery force, a Bulgarian army of 100,000 to 150,000, moving from the east and perhaps a Turkish force cooperating from the southeast. Italy appears to be the only Power that can jump into the breach with an army of any size. She has expressed her determination to help. Can she do the trick? It is difficult to see how Russian troops can give any aid. If sent from Bessarabia, they would have to cross Rumanian soil. If sent from Odessa, where a force of 500,000 is reported concentrated, they would have to fight their way across Bulgarian territory or Turkish Thrace, and even before this the Russian warships would have to clear the way for a landing. It is said that Field Marshal von Mackensen, whose great Phalaris with its overwhelming weight of artillery blew the Russians out of Galatza, is in charge of the Austro-German forces advancing from the north. The great trunk-line railroad from Belgrade to Salonica and Constantinople and with a branch from Nish to Negotin on the Rumanian frontier will be an immediate objective, both of the Germans and the Bulgarians. It is along this road that the Anglo-British troops which landed at Salonica are being distributed. Virtually made over in guns and equipment and stiffened by British and French effectives, the Serbians no doubt will offer the stubborn resistance for which they are famous to the Austro-German advance. They will be assisted by the flood conditions in the Morava Valley, if Field Marshal von Mackensen elects to make this his route.

Score Allies "Failure."

London, Oct. 8.—"The Balkan collapse," declares the Daily Mail editorially, "is the result of a series of diplomatic failures such as have rarely been recorded in the history of any country." The newspaper says that in Constantinople the British ambassador Sir Louis Mallet, who was appointed in 1914, had no knowledge of Turkey or of the Turkish language and that neither did any of his three secretaries. "The position of this embassy was worthy of 'Alice in Wonderland,'" the Daily Mail continues, "and there is good reason to believe this embassy typified the British legations at the other Balkan capitals. The minister at Sofia was changed since the war began and few of his staff had been long in Bulgaria, so that King Ferdinand had no difficulty in deceiving them. Dilatory negotiations went on for months while the Bulgarian monarch chuckled in his sleeve at British simplicity. The third failure occurred at Athens. Great Britain appears to have counted on the active or passive support of Greece, but in the twinkling of an eye comes the transformation and the friendly Greek premier vanishes. Of such a possibility our diplomats appear to have had no inkling. On such events as these the fate of the empire may well depend. A diplomatic defeat is often the herald of a military defeat."

The Attempts to Win Bulgaria

A history of the negotiations with Bulgaria shows that in July, 1914, Bulgaria was informed that she would secure substantial advantage by supporting the Russian policy, which aimed at the peaceful restoration of the Balkan league. In the following August, on demand of the Entente Powers, Serbia agreed in principle to surrender territory to Bulgaria in return for compensation at the expense of Austria-Hungary. Negotiations continued, without success, to secure Bulgaria's active assistance to the Allies, or her neutrality. After Italy's intervention, the Allies made fresh proposals to Bulgaria for her active support, namely, the immediate annexation to Bulgaria of Thrace to the Bosphorus, together with a guarantee at the close of the war of that portion of Macedonia bounded by the line of Egei, Palanka, Sopot and Achrida, including the towns of Egei, Palanka, Kopriv, Orizdika and Monastir, and also pecuniary assistance. Bulgaria still raised objections, and on Sept. 14 last the Allies repeated their proposals, asking in return that Bulgaria should conclude a military convention with the Allies with respect to her action against Turkey. Bulgaria's only reply to this was an order for mobilization.

Slight Gain Along Straits

London, Oct. 8.—During the past month of fighting in the Dardanelles the British have gained on an average something more than 300 yards all along the centre of the four-mile Suvla Bay front, according to an official statement given out last night. The statement was embodied in a report for intelligence Sir Ian Hamilton as follows: "During the past month the fighting at Suvla Bay has not been on a scale calling for special reports. Every night there have been patrol actions and bomb attacks, and we gained an average of a little over 300 yards along the whole centre of the four miles of Suvla front."

Make Gain on the Isonzo

Rome, Oct. 8.—The following official statement from general headquarters was issued last night: "On the plateau northwest of Arzo the active offensive of our troops during the days of Oct. 3 and 5 and the night of the 6th, brought about sharp engagements in that part of the front from Monte Maronin as far as Valle Fonda, south of Monte Duror. Our troops, supported by artillery fire, everywhere had the advantage. "In the Pella Valley enemy detachments divided into several groups, tried to work their way through the wooded slopes of the heights south of the river, but were repulsed with loss, leaving an officer and ten soldiers prisoners in our hands. "On Carso, during the morning of the 6th the enemy directed an intense and galling fire on the positions of the left wing of our lines in the Monte San Michele zone. Our infantry detachments rushed from their trenches onto the spur which descends from San Michele to Pelfano and attacked the enemy groups, occupying it, putting them to flight and capturing twenty-six prisoners. "On the front northwest of Divink the Germans attacked in the region of the railway. A fierce combat was engaged in the district of Grundvald, where the enemy captured a portion of our trenches. The fighting continued. "In the region of Chikova, south of Grundvald, our troops have repulsed the Germans by counter attacks. On the front of Lakes Demmen, Brilavitsa and Obolo the artillery duel continues. "On the front south of Lake Boginsk, approximately as far as the region of the town of Boginsk, on the Lida-Molodetsna railway hot fighting was indulged in, both sides displaying great violence. "In the region north of Kozlany the Germans were ejected from their trenches at Gopodskiydor. "On the night of the 6th we captured the village of Golovsk and the town of Kozlany. In this action our troops had to surmount three lines of enemy trenches. A concentrated cross-fire from the Germans compelled us afterwards to abandon the town, but parts of the trenches remained in our hands.

"During our attack on enemy positions on the River Medzloika some of our troops succeeded in crossing the river, although the water was above their waists and they were exposed to a violent fire.

"West of the village of Mmulykopy, south of Kozlany, we succeeded also in capturing some enemy trenches. "Near the village of Zanapoleh, on the southern shore of Lake Naratich, the Germans were dislodged from their trenches with the bayonet, but by counter attacks they succeeded in retaking them. "An engagement near the village of Samenk, south of Lake Vichneveskno ended in our capturing the village. "Near the village of Bogumel, south of Smorgon, our attack was successful, resulting in the occupation of part of the enemy's positions, in which we found arms, cartridges and munitions of all kinds abandoned by the Germans during their retreat. "It is impossible to refrain from again emphasizing the boundless cour-

ASSAILS PAGAN NATIONAL MORALS

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 9.—Speaking in the Open Air Theatre of Berkeley University at a meeting of the International Peace Congress today, the Rev. Frederick Lynch assailed the low standard of morals in international affairs. He said, in part:

"The chief reason this terrible war is sweeping the world is this: When we act as individuals toward other individuals we act as Christians, when we act as governments toward other governments we act as pagans. Individuals are largely living by Christian principles, governments by pagan principles. What we call vices and crimes in men we praise as virtues and noble deeds in nations. We demand of all decent men conduct which we esult in nations.

"When we ask: What makes a man great we mention those qualities which as nations we despise, throw aside and revile. When we ask what makes a nation great we name the very things that make men small, vile and castoffs from society. It is this double standard of ethics, one for men, one for nations that is largely responsible for the persistence of war. It will cease between nations when we demand of them the same high rules of conduct that we demand of gentlemen. Fights between individuals stopped when men became gentlemen. Today men are gentlemen, and nations are rowdies.

"Has one nation a right to plunge all Europe into hell, or even to make all the other peaceful nations suffer—for all nations suffer vastly from the war of even two—simply to secure its own rights, even where it is recognized by all that the rights have been violated? Has any nation the right to go to war without first consulting all the other nations and exhausting every existing means of securing justice when such a course inevitably means the ruin of thousands of disinterested and innocent people, and may mean the drawing of many other nations into the war?

"What Mr. Taft said at the dedication of the Pan-American Peace Palace in Washington must be applied to all nations. He said that no two nations on the American Continent had any right to go to war and disturb all the others, and that he hoped the time would soon come when the nineteen nations would say to any other two considering war, 'You must stop.' It is time this came in all the world.

"Any nation which today, with the present oneness of the world, declares war against another country, thereby declares war against every other country, and the time has come to recognize this fact. No nation can go to war today without going to war against all humanity."

MRS. MOHR ASKS FUNDS FOR FAMILY

Providence, R. I., Oct. 8.—Judge Frank H. Hamill of the Fifth District Court, sitting at Warren, discontinued the cases brought against Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, George W. Healis, Cecil Victor Brown and Henry H. Spellman, in connection with the murder of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr on August 31.

All four of the defendants in the District Court cases have been indicted by the Superior Court Grand Jury, and in view of that fact, action in the District Court is unnecessary. Judge Hamill discharged all four defendants from District Court jurisdiction.

This action releases $10,000 bail, which Mrs. Mohr gave after her arrest by the police. Mrs. Mohr is still under $20,000 bonds to await further Superior Court trial. The $10,000 bail was to insure her appearance before the District Court.

When court convened Chief of Police Robbins of Barrington told Judge Hamill that, in view of the fact that indictments had been found against the four defendants, he moved that the cases in the District Court be dismissed and the defendants discharged.

John B. Edwards, attorney for the three negroes, was the only representative of either side in the court room in addition to Chief Robbins.

Three petitions have been filed with the clerk of the Municipal Court in this city for Mrs. Mohr by her attorney. One petition asks for a six months allowance from the estate for the support of the family of Dr. Mohr, and a second requests the allowance of furniture. The third document seeks the appointment of Mrs. Mohr as guardian of the two minor children, Charles F. and Virginia B. Mohr.

Hearing on the last named petition will be held by Judge Stone, October 26, but it is doubtful if anything is done with the other two until Mrs. Mohr's previously filed petition for the appointment of an administrator for the estate is heard.

Oats—Production estimate October 1 is 441,000 bushels, September 1 forecast 432,000, final estimate last year 456,000; price October 1 to producers 55 cents, year ago 62 cents.

The Panama Canal is blocked again and it will be some months before it is cleared. Then there will be another slide probably.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, October 9.—Exemption of producing machinery from taxation was declared by several business men at a hearing at the state house before the special commission on taxation, to be the only means by which Massachusetts industry could make progress in the future. Among those who spoke emphatically on the subject were C. H. Porter, controller of the W. H. McElwain company, and Ralph S. Bancroft of Lynn. Mr. Porter argued that some of the disadvantages from which Massachusetts manufacturers suffer might be equalized by the exemption of machinery used in production, restricted hours of labor for women and children, workmen's compensation, and such laws he said, put the Massachusetts manufacturer at a disadvantage now, while the inequalities of the taxation laws accentuate that condition. If the taxes of Massachusetts manufacturers, he contended, could be reduced, it might effect to the full or in part at least, any handicap due to advanced social legislation. Taxes on production, on consumption and on business, because they restrict the purchasing power of the public, Mr. Porter believes that the opportunity is now before Massachusetts, to gain many new industries, while other states are engaged in the work of changing their taxation systems.

Charles Sumner Bird, former candidate for governor of the Massachusetts Progressives, in his letter to Leon Baldwin, acting chairman of the state committee of that party, declares for Samuel W. McCall for governor. In his letter he said: "When President Wilson was elected the United States was respected by most of the world. Today we are distrusted and despised by practically all of the nations of the world. The fight this year must center around the Democratic National administration. The Republican platform as I read it, is a step forward. It makes a substantial recognition of needful, progressive legislation, and above all it shows a change of spirit."

Exercises commemorating the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Richard Henry Dana will be held in Sanders theatre, Cambridge, on Wednesday, October 25. The Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, bishop of Massachusetts will preside. Joseph H. Choate of New York, former ambassador of the United States to the court of St. James, will read a prayer on Mr. Dana as a citizen, a lawyer and a writer on the subject of international law. Prof. Bliss Perry of Harvard will speak of Mr. Dana as a man of letters. Moorfield Storey will also speak.

"The announcement of President Wilson's engagement is likely to help us, because it will detract from the effect of his coming out in favor of suffrage." This was the general sentiment expressed by anti-suffragists today. The prevailing sentiment among the anti is that the chief executive function is that the chief executive has been "unduly influenced." Mrs. Thomas Allen who has recently returned from a western trip, in addressing her fellow workers at a dinner declared: "The women of Massachusetts neither want nor need the vote. We have today more right and privileges than the men have, and they were given us by the most abused class in the community today—by the men. If the ballot is thrust upon us in spite of our protests, the most conscientious voters will be found to be among the anti-suffragists."

The Colonial Theatre show should interest the children with its vaudeville bill. The motor-cycling baboons are a distinct novelty.

"Corn" the big five reel picture playing at the Portsmouth Theatre today is well worth seeing.

No settlement of the city accounts single this week. Hold your ashes in the cellar until the city reports the department ready to handle them again.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE TEAM READY FOR GAME WITH CONNECTICUT STATE COLLEGE THIS AFTERNOON.

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Oct. 8.—New Hampshire had its last practice Friday afternoon before the game with the Connecticut Aggies, which will be played here this afternoon. This will be the first home game and will probably draw spectators from all the surrounding towns.

Wet grounds will materially slow down the home eleven, but steady progress is being made by Coach Cowell, who hopes to have his machine rounded into shape in a week or two. Practically nothing is known here about the Connecticut team except that it downed Wesleyan a week ago. The New Hampshire line-up will be probably as follows:

Westover, 1e; Swett, c; Waterman, 1t; Ford, 1g; Bell, 1g; Jenkins, rt; Brown, re; Irvine, qb; Woodward, lib; Brackett, rbb; Bradrick, fb.

There are several substitutes for each position, and there are always two eleven on the field in practice. H. T. Irvine is ready to relieve Capt. Westover, at left end, and with the exception of quarter there is a second string of backs all of whom are good men. Hecoy can be put in at left half, Noel a freshman, at right, and Wallace another first year man at full. Never is another good back just now coming into prominence.

Among the other second string men, several of whom are likely to make the variety at any moment, are Perley at left guard, Harvell at center, Huse at right guard, Morrill at right tackle and Manter at right end.

Whand of the backfield is out of the game for the time being with a sprained back, and Watson is also on the sick list. Among the latest recruits are G. H. Paul, former University of Maine man, and Thompson, a 1st foot freshman who looks promising.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach or bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

"Look at the tongue, mother! It coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of 'California Syrup of Figs,' then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough 'inside cleansing' is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of 'California Syrup of Figs,' which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grownups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the 'California Fig Syrup Company.'

The police are looking for a young man who had been a chu mof, Elmer Smart. He is thought to be in a Massachusetts city and may throw some light on the question as to where Smart had been since Sept. 13 and the time he was drowned.

A CHAUTAUQUA FOR THIS CITY

Arrangements Being Made to Include This City in the New England Circuit.

Miss Jean Stewart Hamilton, field representative of the Chautauquum Association has been in this city for the past few days making arrangements to include this city in the Chautauquum circuit, and for that purpose a meeting is to be held at Y. M. C. A. hall on Monday evening to perfect a local organization.

This famous educational bureau has operated for years in the Middle West and the most prominent speakers of the country are heard from their platform, but up to last year they had never come into New England, and then in only three of the up-state towns. They give a seven days' program which includes a variety program and light opera, musicals, dramas, lectures by prominent speakers, and in conjunction a Junior's Chautauquum.

The indications are now that an organization will be perfected and that the city will have a Chautauquum week next summer, probably in August.

PORTSMOUTH BOYS HELPED VETERANS

Paul and John McCarthy Greeted Local Veterans at Washington.

The delegation of local veterans of the Storer Post No. 1, G. A. R. who attended the big G. A. R. reunion at Washington last week, spent very highly of the kindness of two Portsmouth boys who are in Washington. They are Paul and John McCarthy, who are in Washington attending the Washington University. They came to the National Hotel where the local delegates were stationed and in many ways sought to make the stay of the veterans most enjoyable. Mr. M. H. Bell said that the veterans greatly appreciated the attention of the local lads.

CYCLING BABOONS WILL INTEREST THE CHILDREN

THE NEDERVELDS OFFERING AGAIN SCORE DA BIG HIT AT THE COLONIAL AND ENTIRE BILL IS FINE.

The Cycling Baboons, shown at the Colonial Theatre by the Nedervelds should prove of great interest to the children this afternoon. It is one of the most interesting and amusing acts that the management of the theatre has presented for some time. The big audience last evening showed their appreciation in no uncertain manner and if the monkeys can realize what hearty applause means, they must have been satisfied with their reception. The act is another of the Keith Time offerings and is here for the last time this evening.

Lawrence and Edwards, in their sketch entitled, "The Pension Office," again scored a hit last night. There is a lot of good clean comedy and that quality known as "heart interest" that makes it a big feature. It is impossible to see the offering and not admire the old fire-eating veteran.

Wayne and Warren Girls were also given another hearty reception on their second night in the town. Their new songs were well received and their jokes appreciated.

The comedy picture, "Billy Joins the Navy," is one of the funniest comedies Billy Reeves has played in a long while. It is well worth seeing and will be enjoyed by every enlisted man and civilian in the city.

Hearst News Pictorial, as always, has much of interest in the film. This week's release is one of the best of the series.

The big Biograph feature, "The Rehearsal," is a very strong picture and will hold the attention to the end. The show was well attended last evening and there is not a weak point in the bill.

POULTRYMEN, ATTENTION!

A meeting will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 12, at 7.30 o'clock at the Board of Trade rooms, Exchange building, Pleasant street, opposite the postoffice. The object of this meeting is to form a Poultry Association. All interested are invited to be present.
